

Chowford Barley

Chowford is a 2-rowed, awned spring forage barley, that was selected for lodging resistance, forage yield, and has excellent tillering making it well adapted as a forage barley under irrigation in the central valley of California. It is moderately resistant to Scald. This variety can get quite tall, up to 48" which is why it's an excellent fodder, but also would be a good green manure or cover cropping variety as well.
